O wise Assembly! and O wiser Senate!

I much rejoice to pen it—
The hundred days in which you live in clover
Are gone and over!
Gone are the Legislators, great and small;
Clerks, Ushers, Porters, Messengers, and all
The crowd of country cousins in the hall!
Gone are the valtures; large and little;
Gone are the valtures; large and little;
Gone are the lattes, short and tall,
The virtuous and the victors. The virtuous and the victors,

The meritorious and the meretricious,

Who follow their vocations

Where you resort; I I a.d. if

ONE CAUSE OF CRIME. To those who have delly access to the local news of the city and country, says the Harrisburg Patriot & Union, the record of crime is indeed alarming. Theft, robbery, murder, aron, rape and the like crimes are committed openly, daringly, in every part of the State. These crimes used to be chiefly confined to the purlicus of large cities, but now the most secluded spot in the interior of the State is not exempt from daring crimes. The inquisitive naturally ask for a solution of the The inquisitive naturally ask for a solution of this unprecedented growth of orime, and it is not a difficult matter to give at least one solution. Example is said to be stronger than precept, and when the citizen, whose duty it is to obey the law, finds the law-makers themselves steeped in iniquity it is not unnatural to follow their example. If it is publicly known that our Congressmen and Legislatore falsify and plunder, steal and rob, take bribes for acts of iniquity, vote themselves public money just as they please and commit other diabolical outrages, it is not astonishing that the ruffian in private-life should take courage from the example of the ruffian in public position. If our law-makers desire that their enactments should be obeyed let them sat a nobler example of purity and virtue than the last Legislature and the last Congress have done. What a debasing thought, that the men who re sent to make wholesome laws for the safety of a confiding people, should them-selves be the boldest thieves and robbers in the State or Nation!

Thuy were sitting side by side. And she sighed and then he sighed! And she alghed and then he aigned!
Said he, "My darling ido!!"
And he idled and then she idled;
"You are creation's belle,"
And she bellowed, and then he bellowed "On my soul there's such a weight,"
And he waited, and then she waited; Your hand I ask, so bold I've grown You shall have a private gig,"
And she grasped, and then he grouped,
You shall have a private gig,"
And she giggled, and then he giggled;
and she, "My dearest Luke,"
And he looked, and then she looked;
I'll have thee if thou wilt," nd he wilted, and then she wilted.

Tan Base res Poraross.—This subject is brought before the farmers of England, by a communication in the Mark Lane Express. M. R. B. Bainford claims thirty-five years' practice and experience in this matter; and has leaved a pamphlet giving his method of using it, which is in brief the following: He does not cut his potatess for setting, but sets them whole, and the largest he can celect. The rows are thirty inches apart, and the potatoes are put nine inches from each other in the row. The land is plowed only eight inches deep, treads the manure firmly in the increws, puts in the tubers, and covers them in with tan refusee nine inches deep, instead of earthing up. In this way he reports that in 1857 he raised 676 bushels of potatoes—not a rotten one among them—to the acre, with nothing but TAN BARN FOR POTATOES .- This sul waste tan as a covering. This is of great importance, the tan relime being of little or no value, and if it can be put to so im tant and advantageous a use as in this

THE ESTRAY LAW .- It will no doubt be THE ESTRAY LAW.—It will no doubt be a matter of interest to many of our readers to know that the law in regard to estray cattle, do, makes it the duty of all persons having estrays in their possession to advertise them within thirty days, or as soon as known to be strayed, and if no owner shall appear and make out his property in said stray within ninety days, after the publication of said advertisement, the person taking up the same shall apply to a Justice of the Peace in the same township, who is required. Peace in the same township, who is required to issue a warrant to a constable, who, after giving ten days notice, is required to sell the same—the money for which is to be paid into the hands of the Justice of the Peace. who is to pay all reasonable charges for the cost of keeping, registering, advertising, selling, &c., and the balance, if there be any, is to be paid into the county treasury.
